

Secrets to Success in Singleness and Money

1. It's Not about You

- Just because you don't have a family doesn't mean that life is about you.
- Find specific ways and outlets to give your time, energy and money to other people to help take the focus off of yourself.
- Live with other people to learn how to serve, honor, and keep a house clean.

2. Prepare Now!

- Don't just wait to work on how you handle your money until you get married.
- Start now addressing your issues with money so that you will be much healthier in marriage, or in continued singlehood.
- Don't just float through life waiting for you to get married. Take advantage of the time you have and set goals for what you would like to accomplish before marriage.
- Find a Godly mentor (pastor, small group leader, someone older that you respect), and then ask them to tell you things that need to change in your life!

3. Save & Give NOW!

- Now is the best time in your life to learn how to manage your money and save and give hilariously.
- You do not have a lot of the financial responsibilities that come with a family and marriage, so choose now to live a disciplined life.
- Don't just spend your money because you have extra.
